Recognise

It is of utmost importance that you can recognise behaviour which may indicate abuse or neglect. Some learners may disclose an issue to you, whereas others may find this difficult and not say anything specific. Signs and indicators will vary from learner to learner, and this can make it difficult to identify where a learner may be at risk. Many of the indicators outlined may have other explanations so it is important not to over-react. If you have any concerns or a learner is displaying any signs/behaviours which may indicate abuse or neglect then you should either speak to the learner, if this is difficult or not feasible then you should notify the Designated Safeguarding Lead, this will initiate guidance to support your learner.

Respond

Never ignore a disclosure. It is important to remain calm and objective. You will need to determine the nature of the allegation and at whom the allegation is directed, whether someone at home, another learner, or a member of staff. Don't react in an emotional way. Use effective listening skills and ask plenty of open questions to gather sufficient information. It is not your responsibility to carry out any investigations. Be mindful not to promise confidentiality. Advise the learner that you have a duty of care to ensure that the learner does not come to any harm and that you will need to document and pass on the information to your Designated Safeguarding Lead.

Report

You must ensure that you know the correct Haddon Training reporting procedure, who your Designated Safeguarding Lead is and how to contact them. If they are not available, you will need to contact their deputy. Once you have made a report, the Designated Safeguarding Lead then takes on responsibility to ensuring appropriate actions are taken. You have the right to check that the actions taken have been appropriate, but due to the need for confidentiality, it may not be possible to provide details. If you are not satisfied and you feel that a learner is still at risk, it is your responsibility to take this further and contact the appropriate body to protect an individual. A debrief will be held with each individual who has raised a cause for concern by the Designated Safeguarding Lead or Deputy Safeguarding Lead to offer support following any disclosures which may affect their own mental health and wellbeing.

Record

Using the Cause for Concern Form you will need to document exact details of a disclosure or indicators which have given you a reason to be concerned about the safety and welfare of a learner. There is no need to do this whilst speaking with the learner but do so immediately afterwards so that the details are fresh in your memory.

Refer

This is the responsibility of the Designated Safeguarding Lead as it ensures that numerous referrals about the same concern are avoided and ensures that external agencies have one consistent contact. But remember if you are not satisfied with the actions taken, you are able to make a direct referral to the appropriate external body.

The safeguarding status of all learners is assessed at programme enrolment. At each visit, the safeguarding status of the learner is reviewed against the safeguarding system.

- There will be occasions when learners under the age of eighteen will live on-site with their employer or/and other staff members. If the employer and/or staff members are over the age of eighteen, Haddon Training staff need to ensure that they have received a completed DBS Consent Form from the individual/s and must pass the completed form onto the Designated Safeguarding Lead. A consent form from the learner's parent/carer/guardian can be provided should a DBS application be delayed – this must be authorised by a member of the Haddon Senior Leadership Team.

6.6 Learners:

Raising any safeguarding concerns with their Trainer Coach or to the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

7. Reporting Safeguarding Concerns and Haddon Training Safeguarding Contact Details

All staff have a responsibility to ensure any safeguarding concerns are appropriately reported. Haddon Training aim to ensure that this process is as simple as possible to ensure prompt actions are taken where needed. If a Prevent referral is made to counter terrorism policing, an additional referral will also need to be submitted to the relevant LA LADO.

9. Recording and Tracking

In order to ensure that all safeguarding concerns are effectively monitored, reported and referred as appropriate, Haddon Training have a confidential monitoring and reporting system in place.

Where a Cause for Concern form is submitted the organisation's Designated Safeguarding Lead will:

- Review the Cause for Concern Form
- Update the Haddon Training Safeguarding Tracker 'MyConcern'.

The Designated Safeguarding Lead will advise, monitor and review all reported safeguarding issues to ensure that such concerns are addressed appropriately to ensure a positive learner outcome.

10. Confidentiality

'Keeping learners safe' refers to listening to the child and duty of confidentiality.

The duty of confidentiality is not absolute and may be breached where this is in the best interests of the child and in the wider public interest. If professionals judge that disclosure is necessary to protect the child or other children from a risk of serious harm, confidentiality may be breached.

Haddon Training takes the issues of safeguarding and confidentiality very seriously. Data protection and confidentiality of information about or disclosed by learners has been considered in all of Haddon Training's safeguarding procedures.

The MIS system used to record learner safeguarding status is password protected and only authorised staff have access to this system. The MyConcern system is also password protected and only authorised users have access.

All cause for concern forms are securely held with access restricted to the Designated Safeguarding Lead, their deputies and the person who initially raised the concern.

All learners will be advised that where a learner is deemed to be at substantial risk, the member of staff has a duty of care to act on disclosures or observations made. Consent from the learner will be sought where possible, but the safety of the learner takes priority and information may be provided to external agencies if needed. This will only be done, under the guidance of the Haddon Training Designated Safeguarding Lead.

11. Principles of Information Sharing

There are key principles to sharing information which allow those working with children, young people and adults at risk to make sound decisions regards sharing information.

Golden rules to sharing information

1. Remember that the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), Data Protection Act 2018 and human rights law are not barriers to justified information sharing but provide a framework to ensure that personal information about living individuals is shared appropriately.
2. Be open and honest with the individual (and/or their family where appropriate) from the outset about why, what, how and with whom information will, or could be shared, and seek their agreement, unless it is unsafe or inappropriate to do so.
3. The GDPR gives people the right to be informed, which means they need to be made aware of how their data is being used. However, under the GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018 you may share information without consent if, in your judgement, there is a lawful basis to do so. You will need to base your judgement on the facts of the case. When you are sharing or requesting personal information from someone, be clear of the basis upon which you are doing so. Where you do not have consent, be mindful that an individual might not expect information to be shared.
4. Seek advice from other practitioners, or your safeguarding lead, if you are in any doubt about sharing the information concerned, without disclosing the identity of the individual where possible.
5. Consider safety and well-being: base your information sharing decisions on considerations of the safety and well-being of the individual and others who may be affected by their actions.
6. Necessary, proportionate, relevant, adequate, accurate, timely and secure: ensure that the information you share is necessary for the purpose for which you are sharing it, is shared only with those individuals who need to have it, is accurate and up to date, is shared in a timely fashion, and is shared securely (see Principles).
7. Keep a record of your decision and the reasons for it – whether it is to share information or not. If you decide to share, then record what you have shared, with whom and for what purpose.

Principles

Practitioners should use their judgement when making decisions about what information to share and should follow organisation procedures. The most important consideration is whether sharing information is likely to support the safeguarding and protection of a child.

There are a number of principles that can assist practitioners in making decisions about sharing information:

Necessary and proportionate - When taking decisions about what information to share, you should consider how much information you need to release. Not sharing more data than is necessary to be of use is a key element of the GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018, and you should consider the impact of disclosing information on the information subject and any third parties. Information must be proportionate to the need and level of risk.

Relevant - Only information that is relevant to the purposes should be shared with those who need it. This allows others to do their job effectively and make informed decisions.

Adequate - Information should be adequate for its purpose. Information should be of the right quality to ensure that it can be understood and relied upon.

Accurate - Information should be accurate and up to date and should clearly distinguish between fact and opinion. If the information is historical then this should be explained.

Timely - Information should be shared in a timely fashion to reduce the risk of missed opportunities to offer support and protection to a child. Timeliness is key in emergency situations, and it may not be appropriate to seek consent for information sharing if it could cause delays and therefore place a child or young people at increased risk of harm. Practitioners should ensure that sufficient information is shared, as well as consider the urgency with which to share it.

Secure - Wherever possible, information should be shared in an appropriate, secure way. Practitioners must always follow their organisation's policy on security for handling personal information.

Record - Information sharing decisions should be recorded, whether or not the decision is taken to share. If the decision is to share, reasons should be cited including what information has been shared and with whom, in line with organisational procedures. If the decision is not to share, it is good practice to record the reasons for this decision and discuss them with the requester. In line with each organisation's own retention policy, the information should not be kept any longer than is necessary. In some rare circumstances, this may be indefinitely, but if this is the case, there should be a review process scheduled at regular intervals to ensure data is not retained where it is unnecessary to do so.

12. GDPR & Data Protection

Working Together to Safeguard People information sharing to safeguard children state:

The GDPR and Data Protection Act 2018 do not prevent, or limit, the sharing of information for the purposes of keeping children and young people safe.

To effectively share information:

- all practitioners should be confident of the processing conditions, which allow them to store, and share, the information that they need to carry out their safeguarding role. Information which is relevant to safeguarding will often be data which is considered 'special category personal data' meaning it is sensitive and personal.
- where practitioners need to share special category personal data, they should be aware that the Data Protection Act 2018 includes 'safeguarding of children and individuals at risk' as a condition that allows practitioners to share information without consent.
- information can be shared legally without consent, if a practitioner is unable to, cannot be reasonably expected to gain consent from the individual, or if to gain consent could place a child at risk.
- relevant personal information can be shared lawfully if it is to keep a child or individual at risk safe from neglect or physical, emotional or mental harm, or if it is protecting their physical, mental, or emotional well-being.

It is also important that:

- Fears about sharing information should not be a barrier to safeguarding and promoting the well-being of children at risk of abuse or neglect.
- Every practitioner must take responsibility for sharing the information they hold and cannot assume that someone else will pass on information, which may be critical to keeping a child safe.
- Practitioners must understand how to work in collaboration with other agencies to share information in a proportionate and timely way to prevent harm.

Remember, you can always speak to your Designated Safeguarding Lead.

13. Difficult Issues

Those working with children, young people or adults at risk understand that they have a duty to share information when they or others have evidence that someone is being or is at risk of being abused or neglected. The more difficult situations are where: -

There is little or no clear evidence, but you may have a worry that the child or adult at risk may be at risk of abuse or neglect.

Or

The concern is not about abuse or neglect, but about other aspects of the child or adult's at-risk welfare or well-being, such as a health issue, their attendance and performance at work or in their placement, or that they may become involved in criminal behaviour.

There have been many cases in the media where failure to report even seemingly minor concerns have led to serious consequences for the welfare of a child, adult at risk, or for others. In the relatively short amount of time you may spend with a learner, it is unlikely that you will see the full picture. Sometimes it is not until information is shared and understood, that a clearer picture emerges, which may confirm or allay concerns about a child or adult's at-risk safety and welfare. Cases such as Peter Connelly and David Pelka or the widespread issues which emerged from Winterbourne View care home are extreme examples of cases where serious issues have not been identified at an early opportunity.

14. Impact on the Learner

The implementation of this policy will ensure that the safety and welfare of learners is put at the forefront of all Haddon Training undertakings. It will ensure that Haddon Training are able to support learners where safeguarding concerns arise.

15. Communication

Haddon Training will ensure that safeguarding information and training is communicated at all appropriate opportunities and the relevant records maintained for reference and audit. Staff will ensure that effective communication is achieved with learners, stakeholders and the wider community.

This policy will be made available in hard copy and in an electronic format on SharePoint and Team8. This policy will also be made available bilingually and in large print upon request.

16. Monitoring and Review Processes

The process of integrating the safeguarding of vulnerable groups into the provision is led by a senior level safeguarding lead with the board being informed on a number of issues raised, to ensure that the highest levels of commitment are achieved. Areas for development will be incorporated within the Quality Development Plan.

Curriculum audits and other quality assurance activities within the delivery of learning will monitor, regulate and report on the standard of safeguarding of vulnerable groups related learning and manage the continuous improvement of this through existing systems.

The policy and procedures will be reviewed on an annual basis and/or in line with changes to legislation.

17. Complaints

All complaints will be taken seriously and dealt with in a timely and sensitive manner, in accordance with company procedures and the Group's Complaints Policy and Procedure.

18. Local Authorities (LA)

As each local authority/county council has overall responsibility for the safeguarding of children and adults, the first point of contact will always be to the local authority at which that person at risk resides at. If the risk of harm or danger is imminent then this would therefore warrant an immediate call to the emergency services by dialling 999.

The link below contains an A-Z of all local authorities in England. The referral process for each local authority may not be the same and so it is important that you locate the child protection /adult and family department/LADO to establish their process and to then make the necessary referral.

Prevent

The Prevent duty - statement from the Home Office:

The aim of Prevent is to stop people from becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism. Prevent also extends to supporting the rehabilitation and disengagement of those already involved in terrorism.

The Prevent duty requires specified authorities such as education, health, local authorities, police and criminal justice agencies (prisons and probation) to help prevent the risk of people becoming terrorists or supporting terrorism. It sits alongside long-established safeguarding duties on professionals to protect people from a range of other harms, such as substance abuse, involvement in gangs, and physical and sexual exploitation. The duty helps to ensure that people who are susceptible to radicalisation are supported as they would be under safeguarding processes.

Education settings that are subject to the Prevent duty (as outlined in the specified authority's section) should understand these requirements as part of their wider safeguarding and welfare responsibilities. For schools and colleges, this guidance should be read alongside relevant safeguarding guidance. In England, this includes 'Working together to safeguard children' and 'Keeping children safe in education'.

Police specified authorities

The police specified authorities listed in Schedule 6 of the Counterterrorism and Security Act 2015 \(CTSA 2015\) are as follows:

- police forces in England and Wales (through their Chief Officers of Police)
- Police and Crime Commissioners
- the British Transport Police
- port police forces
- the Civil Nuclear Police Authority

National Police Prevent Advice Line: 0800 011 3764

A more detailed account of Prevent can be found in the Haddon Training Prevent Policy.
